During the last few days the British have again shelled Lens. Fire combats in the Argonne and Meuse sector only temporarily abated.

On the east the Russians have repented with great violence the attacks against Field Marshal von Hindenburg's front. The attack against the German lines northwest of Jacobstadt engaged an amount of soldiers and ammunition up to now unheard of. On the front the Russians have suffered a loss proportionate to numbers engaged, while they have nowhere been successful.

The Germans made counter attacks with Prussian regiments near Mokrycze in order to recover artillery observation posts. This task was completely fulfilled by the brave German troops, who captured 21 officers and 2140 soldiers and many machine guns. SENATE DEMOCRATS IN CAUCUS AND FINANCE COMMITTEE VOTE DOWN INTERNAL REVENUE PLAN

Upper House Will Consider Favorable Report Next Week--Then Goes to Lower House For Agreement On New Feature

[Special Star-Bulletin Cable]
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 28.—Out of the discussions and arguments of Democratic caucus and committee work, the Kitchin free-sugar repeal bill is coming with but one amendment—that which limits the period of extension of the present sugar duty.

The Kitchin bill, coming from the house with an outright repeal of the clause which would put sugar on the free list on May 1, 1916, will be reported from committee to the senate next week with an amendment providing that sugar will go on the free list on May 1, 1920.

The Democratic caucuses on the bill were ended today. The Democrats of the upper house agreed in their caucus to amend the Kitchin bill by limiting the extension of the tariff period, with the duty at one cent per pound, to May 1, 1920. The caucus decided this and then discussed the proposal to increase the tariff a half cent or more to get additional revenue. The plan of internal revenue taxation, either by a consumption tax or an excise tax, was also considered briefly and then dropped. It was considered improbable that the consumption tax plan would meet with much favor and the excise tax plan was vigorously opposed from the beginning.

The vote on the plan to limit the tariff extension to 1920 was carried by 23 to 7.

Following the caucus action, the senate finance committee met this afternoon, resuming consideration of the bill. The proposition for a consumption or an excise tax was overwhelmingly rejected, as it had been in the caucuses. The finance committee ultimately rejected all suggestions for special taxes on sugar and ordered a favorable report on the house bill, with the amendment limiting the suspension of the free-sugar clause to May 1, 1920. No other features are involved in the report, which will be brought up before the senate, says Chairman Simmons of the finance committee, some time next week.

NEW ARMY BILL WILL BE UP BEFORE SENATE TOMORROW

[Associated Press Service by Federal Wireless]
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 28.—The first of the important national defense measures will be before the senate tomorrow, the army reorganization bill having been made "unfinished business" and set for consideration. The debate begins tomorrow.

Today both house and senate passed the emergency appropriation bill carrying $8,611,502 to give added strength to the Mexican expedition. The lone vote against the bill in the house was that of Representative Meyer London, Socialist, who declared in the course of discussion that blunders lead to war and that he is against the United States spending money on the Mexican expedition.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt told the house naval affairs committee at a meeting today that a quarter of a million men would be needed by the navy in time of war.

ARMY WILL USE BIG PORTION OF NAVAL STATION

Important changes in the location of the paymaster's office and the administration building at the naval station are in progress today. The former structure is being moved from the Ewa end of the naval reservation to the Waikiki end, near the radio station, and the administration building will be moved to a site adjacent to the relocated office.

The object of these changes is to allow the Hawaiian department use of more than two-thirds of the reservation for the erection of a warehouse or storehouse. It is understood that the arrangement between the navy and war departments, relative to the army using the major part of the reservation, makes possible the cutting through of Punchbowl street to Allen street, where it now ends at the mauka side of the reservation. That area Ewa of the extended street will be army property; Waikiki, navy.

At present the army is allowed to use the old naval sheds at the naval station, for storing hay, grain and supplies, in addition to making use of the old immigration station Ewa of the naval station.

As soon as the necessary money is available, the army will do considerable construction work along the strip which has been taken over by the transfer. This work will include the repair of storehouses now there, the building of new storehouses, and repair to the dock. The present territorial immigration site, which was transferred by the governor and harbor board some time ago, is included in the property.

The storehouses will be used only for general freight shipments brought in here. Ammunition will not be stored there, but taken to Fort Shafter.

hours later. He returned to find himself confronted by an officer, who led him down to the station and booked him for larceny.

BEGIN MURDER CASE AGAINST YOU CHU YONG

You Chu Yong, Korean, charged in the police court with first degree murder, was the center of interest in a trial which took up most of the time of the session this morning, the case being continued towards noon until April 1.

Two witnesses were examined this morning. Park In Goo, who is alleged to have been in the room of Kim Hoong Yul, the murdered Korean, at the time of the shooting, and Detective John Kellest.

The Korean witness showed much reticence in answering the questions of the prosecution, repeating over and over the answer, "Ask me a question if you want me to answer it," when told by the prosecution to state what had happened on the day of the shooting after You Chu Yong, the alleged murderer, came into the room.

The defendant sat, evidently unimpressed by most of the testimony and showing little nervousness. He employed himself studying his fingers most of the time, and looked up only occasionally to listen to the questions. He is being defended by Judge A. D. Larnach and L. M. Strauss.

HAWAIIAN CHAUFFEUR IS FINED FOR BREAKING LINE

E. K. Panewa, Hawaiian, arrested on a charge of breaking through a line of automobiles at the wharf, was fined $5 this morning in police court. The case of Carmella Roman, charged with larceny, was nolle prossed at the request of the prosecution, who stated that he had learned that the pan which Carmella was accused of stealing was the joint property of her and the complaining witness.

The case of Mrs. Leong Lum, charged with non-support of her children, was discharged on the grounds of insufficient evidence for prosecution.
